PROGRAM

The group major in Ethnic Studies provides a core curriculum designed to develop a comparative and multidisciplinary understanding of the experiences and communities of African Americans, Asian Americans, Chicano/Latinos, and Native Americans.

Students majoring in Ethnic Studies study the history, culture, politics, and sociology of Third World communities in the United States within the general context of American society and institutions. Thus, they pursue knowledge vital for a critical understanding of contemporary society and for social changes to improve the lives and communities of racial minorities. Ethnic studies majors also prepare themselves for advanced graduate study in either academic or professional fields.

Lower division requirements for the Ethnic Studies major:

ETH STD 11AC - Introduction to Ethnic Studies

Two electives from:

- African American Studies
- Asian American Studies
- Chicano Studies
- Ethnic Studies
- Gender and Women's Studies
- LGBT Studies
- Native American Studies
